I believe you referred to the Presidents speech as a prayer but not a policy. Just recently, you published one of the most interesting and valuable dissertations on the role of religion in foreign policy. How would you apply this to the current Iraq situation LBRIGHT Ms. A. Well, I must state flat out that I believe in a sep-ara-tion of church and State. But I do think that since large aspects of what is going on in Iraq has a religious basis, that we should consider trying to involve some religious leaders that might be able to work on some conflict resolution. I have named some that I know well, the grand mufti of Sara-jevo, Mr. Ceric, has a very good reputation, has worked in a very difficult area in the Balkans. We might also consider looking at the role of moderate - one of the hardest parts I have to say is finding the right adjectives or even nouns for describing people, but to try to get people that have religious connections and know how to work within a secular society, for instance, Prime Minister Badawi of Malaysia, who is also chairman of the Organization of Islamic Countries, to help. But I would try to get some religious leaders involved in trying to mend the rifts and also to try to get, Ayatollah Sistani who has, who continues to have great influence involved in this....
