Imagine a world in which electricity - the lifeblood of modern society - disappears in the blink of an eye. No televisions. No phones. No lights. But that's not all . . . Anything with a computer chip is instantly fried. Credit cards become nothing more than a sheet of plastic. Cars stall in the middle of highways. Jet aircraft fall from the sky. America is plunged into a new Dark Ages in which up to ninety percent of the population will die within one year. The government falls apart. Hospitals shut down. Armed gangs roam the streets, taking what they want from anyone who crosses their path. The first thirty days after an EMP attack are the most critical. If you make it that long, you might have a chance at survival. And it's a big one. You could be plunged into this world very soon. Are you ready for those first thirty days? Are you prepared for the World Changer?.
